FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

SRNS Recruitment Fair Seeks Engineers and Project Controls Professionals

AIKEN, S.C., August 8, 2022 – Due to new demands for more staffing, Savannah River Nuclear Solutions (SRNS), management and operations contractor at the Department of Energy's Savannah River Site (SRS), will hold an Engineering and Project Controls Recruitment Fair on Friday, Aug. 26, 11 a.m.-7 p.m., at the University of South Carolina Aiken Student Activity Center.

SRNS representatives will not only provide information about SRNS and SRS, but they'll be on hand to recruit and assess potential applicants.

Participants can register by visiting the SRNS website or by clicking on the following link: SRNS Career Fair Registration.

"When you think of SRS, you often don't realize how much engineering and project controls keep the Site running optimally and safely. These professionals play a crucial role towards maintaining and enhancing our national security and defense missions and — at the same time — can offer a long and beneficial career," said SRNS Talent Acquisition Manager Bryan Ortner. "SRNS has some great job opportunities for candidates in these fields, as well as many other professions."

Event recruiters seek engineering and project controls personnel with the following skills.

Engineering Skills:

Chemical/Process
Civil/Structural
Electrical/Power/High Voltage
Instrumentation and Controls
Distributed Control Systems
Manufacturing
